Hard-working partially single, single mother who needs to find her inner voice and strength while finding the love of her life who helps her to build a strong foundation. Felicia Montgomery has been in an on-again off-again relationship with the father of her children David Foster for almost thirteen years now. They had two beautiful little girls. David counts on Felicia to do everything (even the most miniscule and mundane tasks). Felicia finds the strength to finally leave David, even if she faces the possibility of being a single mother for the rest of her life. While becoming a confident and happier Felicia, she starts to give her childhood crush Harrison a chance... Harrison is a successful businessman who is not afraid to get his hands dirty. Harrison owns a chain of body shops and knows how to work with his hands. There's nothing more Harrison needed to balance out his seemingly "perfect" life, than the love of a good woman and the pitter patter/stomping of little feet around the house. Harrison has had a huge crush on Felicia for quite some time now. But he always held back from asking her out, knowing she was still involved with the father of her children. Until now.... Will Harrison and Felicia be able to build each other up and find the happiness they both deserve.....? Or will they let the past come in between them.
